INSTRUCTIONS TO CANDIDATES

Use black ink, black ball-point pen or your usual method.

Write your name, centre number and candidate number in the spaces provided on the front cover.

Answer TWO questions from Section A and ONE question from Section B.

Write your answers in the spaces provided in this booklet. If you run out of space, use the continuation page at the back of the booklet, and if this is not sufficient use supplementary sheets. Write your name at the top of each supplementary sheet, indicating clearly the number of the question you answer. Put the supplementary sheets inside this booklet.
INFORMATION FOR CANDIDATES

The number of marks is given in brackets at the end of each question or part-question.

You are reminded that assessment will take into account the quality of written communication used in your answers that involve extended writing. These are the questions in Section B.

In addition, your ability to spell, punctuate and use grammar accurately will be assessed in your answer to your chosen question in Section B.
SECTION A

Answer TWO questions from this section.

1. This question is focused on changing crimes and their causes. [20]

   (a) Describe the crime of heresy in the sixteenth century. [5]
[A picture of a highway robbery in 1750. It shows a highwayman on horseback pointing a pistol at a man in a carriage. They are on an isolated road, away from the nearest house, and the highwayman has a handkerchief covering his lower face. Another masked highwayman is pointing a pistol at the driver]

SOURCE B

During the eighteenth century towns in Britain began to grow. As people moved from rural areas to the towns to look for work, the old communities that had existed in villages for centuries disappeared.

[From a school textbook]
Study the two sources opposite about crime in the eighteenth century and answer the question that follows.

1(b) Explain why the growth of industrial towns led to an increase in crime. [7]

In your answer, you should use the information in the sources and your own knowledge to show the extent of change and the reasons for this.
1(c) Why has the computer been important in causing new types of crime in the late twentieth century? [8]
2. This question is focused on changing methods used to combat crime. [20]

(a) Describe the role of Charlies in the seventeenth century. [5]

SOURCE A

[A Police box in 1929. A large box can be seen in a street. A police constable is talking on a telephone which he has got out from a panel in the side of the box]

SOURCE B

The increase in resources available to the police has changed the way that crime is combatted. The police now have access to technology such as CCTV, two-way radios, mobile phones and the Police National Computer.

[From a school textbook]
Study the two sources opposite about technology and policing in the twentieth century and answer the question that follows.

2(b) Explain why technology has changed the methods used to combat crime. [7]

In your answer, you should use the information in the sources and your own knowledge to show the extent of change and the reasons for this.
How important was the work of the Fielding brothers in improving the methods of catching criminals in the eighteenth century? [8]
3. This question is focused on changing methods of punishment. [20]

(a) Describe the treatment of young offenders in the twentieth century. [5]
SOURCE A

[People being punished in the stocks in the sixteenth century. A man and a woman are sitting with their hands and feet trapped in a wooden frame. Bits of fruit and vegetables can be seen on the ground in front of them]

SOURCE B

The punishment for the most serious crimes at the time would have involved public execution just as it had been in the Middle Ages. The punishment for heresy was being burnt at the stake, while the punishment for treason was hanging, unless you were rich or a woman, then it was beheading. These punishments acted as a deterrent and served as a warning to others.

[From a website about crime and punishment]
Study the two sources opposite about punishment in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries and answer the question that follows.

3(b) Explain why punishments differed in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. [7]

In your answer, you should use the information in the sources and your own knowledge to show the extent of difference and the reasons for this.
3(c) How successful was the introduction of the silent and separate systems into nineteenth century prisons? [8]
END OF QUESTION 3
